Sunday School Celebration.

BETHEL, September 25th, 1886. The Sunday School celebration, the great social event of the season, came off last Saturday, with all its attractions. Friday, Sept. 24, Henry Welch and Rob- The morning was quite pleasant, their plans were laid for the occasion and must be carried out and quite early in the day they began coming in from all directions and soon the beautiful grove surrounding the church was alive with the happy throng, all seeming eager to make the most out of the opportunity. There is a transient bliss about these Sunday School meetings that possessor of the honored roll will cherish among pleasant memories. Briefly bleased are they who experience the delightful sensation of ringing applause and stacks of bouquets. Early in the morning the marshals were on the ground with their spirited horses, ready for their work. The police were on duty and good order prevailed. The Danville brass band was on hand promptly and did credit to itself and gave a plausible animation to all the movements. The Bethel school to church, Dick Thompson, a colored was the first on the ground, then Sugar tree Ridge, New Market and Wesley staggered up past the public building Chapel. The proceedings of the day and was taken in. Later in the day he were under the management of Revs. was fined $5 and sent to work it out on Galbreath and Brigg. About 10:30 the exercises began by music by the band after which the congregation sang "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." Rev. Briggs then offered an appropriate prayer. Rev. J. A. Long being present, was introduced and entertained the audience with a brief address.

After noon Rev. Galbreath gave quite a leasant address and was followed by Rev. Briggs, Messrs. Frank Lyle, of Greenfield, and H. H. Redkey. Singing bp the schools alternately. We will not compliment any school, but will say, after acknowledging our school was left, that the schools all sang remarkably well. We believe that the moral effect of these Sunday school gatherings is for good, and the farmer should oftener leave his farm and the professional man his office, and all come together as they did at Bethel and cultivate their social nature and learn that there is a sweeter and better life than that of living solely for selfish ends, and that it is our duty, as teachers and parents, to try and check the increase of crime by the youth. Truly, the day will be remembered as a joyful one by all those present, and if we never meet together, at Bethel, on earth, may we meet in the unbroken Sunday school reunion in our beautiful molished and some glass was broken out of the second windows.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Burch Amen Frightfully Mangled an Instantly Killed.

Barch Amen, a well known Hillsbon boy, who for the past year has been brakeman on the C., W. & B. railroad met with a horrible death last Thursday afternoon at the track yards of the C., W. & B. near the fertilizer storehouses. The details as told by an eye witness were as follows: The engine was backing up from the ware houses with three empty cars. They were running with a good deal of speed in order to make a running switch. Burch had climbed down between the front car and the entrain, when he lost his footing and fell under the car. He was descent between the same and family. under the car. He was dragged between the rails for more than a hundred feet and then thrown under the wheels.

The entire train passed directly over his head, crushing it into an unrecognizable mass and entirely severing it from the body. The body was otherwise horribly wrenched and mangled. Death was instantaneous.

The remains were removed to Holmes & Bros., where they were prepared for burial. The funeral took place at his mother's residence on Friday at 4 p. m.

Coroner's Inquest.

An inquest was held over the body of Burch E. Amen, by H. H. Maddox, J. P., then acting Coroner of Highland county, on Friday, Sept. 24th, 1886. The following witnesses were sworn and examined: Thos. Michaels, engineer on the C., W. & B. railroad ; Lewis Gettle, fireman on the C., W. & B. railroad; W. H. Gregg and Dr. W. Hoyt. The testimony of the witnesses conformed to the account of the accident elsewhere given. The finding of the Coroner is as follows:

After hearing said testimony and examining the body, I do find that Burch E. Amen came to his death by falling under the wheels from the front end of a freight car, about one mile west of Hillsboro, Shio, on the Hillsboro Branch Hillsboro, whio, on the Hillsboro Branch of the Cincinnati, Washington & Baltimore Railroad, while preparing to uncouple engine from said car, for the purpose of making what is called a running switch. I further find that said falling which caused said death, was purely accidental and no blame whatever attaches to the train men, who at that time were in charge of said train, or anyone else.

It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy to throw off the causes and tone up the digestive organs till they perform their duties willingly. Hood's Barsaparilla has proven just the required remedy in hundreds of cases.

The person or persons who so maliciously took Prof. Ferguson's carriage from the shed and chopped it to pieces would not nesitate to commit murder, if they thought they could do so and not be found out. Such people are very dangerous to let run at large in a civilized community, and the sooner society is rid of them the better. The Professor has his suspicions as to who the guilty party is, but the evidence is not sufficient to have them arrested. We truly hope the guilty one will be ferreted out and punished as he righty deserves.

We notice that the Leesburg Buckeye attacks Rev. Martin Redkey in a most unwarranted way, for there is no citizen in this town who has more friends or is more respected than Mr. Redkey. He has the love, respect and esteem of every good, moral citizen in the town, and for a little local newspaper to attack a man of the standing in the community of Mr. Redkey looks to us like very small business indeed.

Marshal Dooley locked a man up this morning, whose name we did not learn, on a charge of drunkenness. Our Mayor, after seeking advice in the matter, concluded that five and coate would about pay all the damage done the corporation by this individual, and assessed his fine accordingly.
